Alumni Support Parallels University Progress

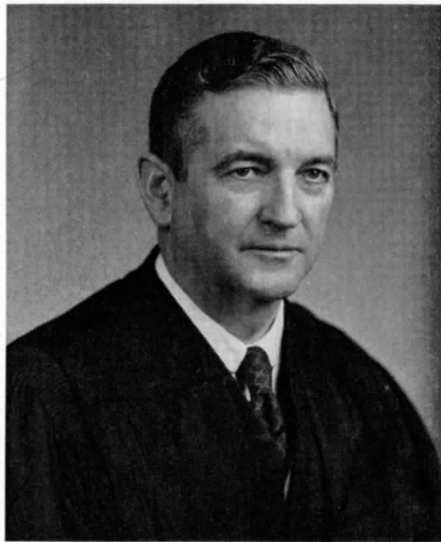

The General Alumni Association and its affiliated alumni groups have begun their 1955-56 schedule of activities in a spirit of optimism unprecedented in alumni history at The George Washington University. The milestones passed by the University during the last year—of which you will read more in the pages following—have done much to establish our Alma Mater as one of the Nation's leading institutions of higher education.

That record of tremendous progress on an academic and physical level has been paralleled by an increase in alumni support, here at the University and wherever there are graduates of the institution. Stanley J. Tracy, President of the General Alumni Association for the past two years, has turned over to incoming President James R. Kirkland an impressive record of achievement.

The Fall of 1955 finds all alumni activities, not just the General Alumni Association, working through the University's Office of Alumni Relations for the betterment of these affiliated associations and thereby the General alumni body and the University. This spirit of cooperation among alumni from every school and division for the benefit of the University as a whole is a heartening keynote for the future.

Through leadership of President Kirkland and his fellow officers, the General Alumni Association already has underway the most ambitious program in its history. Beginning this month with the Homecoming celebration and climaxed by the Annual Alumni Luncheon next March, the coming months will give each alumnus an opportunity to appreciate his University even more and to serve it better.

To give alumni a greater appreciation of their Alma Mater, the University will issue in the near future a colorful View Book, demonstrating the remarkable development of The George Washington University in the last half century. To display the quality of our faculty, the General Alumni Association will sponsor its first Alumni Symposium during the Homecoming Weekend. Furthermore, alumni will continue to hear of the accomplishments of their fellow-graduates through the Alumni Review, the Federalist, the Courier, and at meetings of alumni clubs and groups.

Alumni will serve the University in many ways: as alumni representatives in their high schools; as key men and women in government agencies in Washington; as members of alumni clubs or of the alumni association of their college or division; and as contributors to the Annual Alumni Fund.

These highlights of the past and future indicate the splendid leadership of outgoing President—Stanley J. Tracy. They also present a challenge through which—his fellow alumni know—President Kirkland will continue the advancement of the General Alumni Association and its contribution to The George Washington University.

Four Professors Are Appointed

New faculty appointments include four of professorial ranks, three of which are in the field of business to care for increasing demands made of the University's teaching program in this area.

Dr. Thomas W. Holland, Vice Chairman of the Atomic Energy Labor-Management Relations Panel, is Visiting Professor of Labor Economics at the University this Fall.

Dr. James Carlton Dockeray, Director of the Office of Fiscal Policy and Tax Consultant to the Assistant Secretary for Domestic Affairs in the Department of Commerce, has joined the University faculty as professor of finance. Dr. Dockeray has been part time member of the business administration faculty of the University since 1946.

In the School of Engineering, Dr. Jack E. Walters, who was Secretary, Research Committee on Engineering Administration of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, has been named Professor of Engineering Administration to administer the University's Master of Engineering Administration program which in its first year of operation enrolled 175 candidates for the degree.

Dr. Robert Aaron Hechtman, specialist in structural design, has been named Professor of Civil Engineering and Executive Officer of the Department. He was formerly professor of structural research at the University of Washington, prior to that a structural designer with DRAVO Corporation. He has done work in the structural design of ships for the Office of Naval Research and the Ship Structure Committee.

Dr. Robert R. Montgomery MD 45, president of the University Medical Society; Miss Mary M. Connelly LLB 22, president of Columbian Women, and Warren C. Crump BCE wd 40, president of the Engineer Alumni Association.

Special Programs In Teaching

To help meet the crucial need for teachers, the University's School of Education is providing special teacher training for: housewives with liberal arts degrees, employed teachers who do not meet minimum license requirements, and retired military personnel who desire to prepare for teaching.

Full-time and part-time programs are being offered to these potential teacher sources.

Many of the Washington area housewives with liberal arts degrees may now prepare for teaching in either elementary or secondary schools, intraining programs offered on full- or part-time basis.

A local survey reveals that more than 2,000 employed area teachers do not meet minimum license requirements. For these teachers, the School of Education offers special methods courses in the teaching of elementary school reading, art, music, physical education, children's literature, science, social studies and arithmetic. Classes meet evenings, for the convenience of teachers.

Another teacher-source is to be found among retired military personnel. The School of Education provides both full and part-time teacher-training programs for these persons.

An intensive program is preparing arts graduates for certification as either elementary or secondary teachers.

Dr. Stevens Named Professor of Neurology

Dr. Harold Stevens, Ph.D., M.D., was named Professor of Neurology last Spring.

A graduate of Pennsylvania State College, he received the A.M., Ph.D. and M.D., degrees from the University of Pennsylvania, where he was appointed University and Harrison Scholar. He received his postgraduate training at the University of Michigan, St. Elizabeth's Hospital, and Columbia University.

Dr. Stevens is a Diplomate of the American Board of Psychiatry and Neurology, a Fellow of the American College of Physicians, and a Fellow of the American Academy of Neurology.

Twenty Significant Blocks

Area Is Designated as Renewal Project For Development of the University

A plan which roughly affirms the 1930 preliminary design for University development of the National Capital's great architect Frederick Law Olmstead has been approved by University Trustees.

The Trustees' action followed a recommendation of the District Redevelopment Land Agency which was approved in September by the National Capital Planning Commission.

Reports of this action appeared in Washington newspapers as follows:

"The National Capital Planning Commission yesterday staked out a 20-block urban renewal project southeast of Washington Circle to plan the future growth of The George Washington University.

"The area immediately adjoins the previously adopted Foggy Bottom renewal area south and west of the Circle. The new area is bounded by Pennsylvania Avenue, 19th Street, New York and Virginia Avenues, E and 23d Streets.

"University President Cloyd H. Marvin said the school already 'owns or controls' about 50 per cent of the area.

"He said: 'We have pledged ourselves to work out a detailed plan for use of the area' which will be submitted to the Planning Commission. The two groups will work out any differences and proceed with a mutually agreeable plan.

"Marvin declined to estimate the amount of money to be spent on the new area, saying funds will be spent 'over a period of years.' He said addition of the area was part of 'an over-all plan for the university' begun in the mid-30's.

"He mentioned a new law 'center' as one project slated for the 20-block area. The center would be between 19th Street and 20th Street, facing on Pennsylvania Avenue.

"The latest project for 'urban renewal' differs from that underway in Southwest Washington in one respect: buildings—or whole blocks—now occupying the site approved yesterday for G.W. would be left standing in the university area." The Washington Post and Times-Herald, September 16, 1955.

"George Washington University officials will move quickly in the employment of a landscape architect to plan the future development of the institution. * * *

"National Capital Planning Commission approval of the plan submitted yesterday by the university and the District

Redevelopment Land Agency clears the way for decisive planning of a $1.5 million law center for the university.

"It also frees the hands of university officials to plan for future expansion in an area bounded by Pennsylvania Avenue on the north, Nineteenth Street on the east, Twenty-third Street on the west and E Street, Virginia and New York Avenues on the south.

"Originally the plan called for a southern boundary at F Street. The Planning Commission added a four-block area extending the boundary slightly farther south giving the university officials a 'pleasant surprise.'

"University President Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin said the existing expansion plans for the institution will be revised to utilize the new boundaries to the best advantage. The revised plan will be submitted to the RLA for approval.

"Nearly half of the property in the area is now owned by the University, one official said."—The Evening Star, September 16, 1955.

"Establishment of a George Washington University urban renewal area was to be discussed today by the National Capital Planning Commission.

"It would adjoin the Foggy Bottom urban renewal area, for which boundaries already have been fixed by NCPC.

"It would include some GWU properties, but would extend beyond the University area."—The Washington Daily News, September 15, 1955.

University Maintains Accreditation During 34 Years of Growth

The University this Fall begins its 35th year of accreditation by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Notification was received last Spring from the Association's Commission on Institutions of Higher Education of the reaffirmation of its accreditation.

The University's name appeared on the first accredited list published by the Association in 1921, and accreditation has been reaffirmed following each re-examination since that time.

Reaffirmation last Spring was announced on receipt of a letter to University President Cloyd H. Marvin by Chairman Ewald B. Nyquist of the Commission on Institutions of Higher Education of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Chairman Nyquist wrote: "I delight in the pleasant responsibility I now have of reporting to you the official action of the Commission on Institutions of Higher Education taken recently after serious and careful consideration of the Questionnaire you submitted to us, the Evaluation Report prepared by the visiting committee under the chairmanship of Edward K. Cratsley, Vice President, Swarthmore College, and of Mr. Cratsley's oral presentation. The Commission's decision was to reaffirm the accreditation of George Washington University."

Members of the Joint Evaluating Committee of the Commission, headed by Swarthmore's Vice President Cratsley, visited The George Washington University last November in connection with the Commission's periodic evaluation of all the Association's member institutions.

The Middle States Association, the regional accrediting organization for colleges and universities in the District of Columbia, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Puerto Rico and the Canal Zone, visits each member institution for an evaluation study about once every ten years.

The George Washington University officials issued in 1953 an invitation to the Association to visit the University. For about a year prior to the visit last November, members of the faculty and administration worked on a comprehensive self-evaluation study of the University. This 14-volume report was made available to the visiting committee.

Members of the Committee were 31 distinguished scholars and administrators representing professional organizations and specialized agencies as well as the Middle States Association.

Among the organizations represented were: Association of Colleges for Teacher Education, the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, the American Bar Association, the Association of American Law Schools, the American Council on Pharmaceutical Education, the Engineer's Council for Professional Development and the Liaison Committee on Medical Education representing the American Association of American Medical Colleges.

Homecoming 1955

Did you ever want to have at your command outstanding and interesting members of the University faculty? Your wishes will be fulfilled at the first Alumni Symposium to be held Saturday, November 5, at 2:00 p.m. in Lisner Auditorium as part of the Homecoming Weekend.

Ten noted educators will present the theme, "The University Views the Atomic Age," as it is related to science, the humanities and government. In one afternoon alumni, students and friends will hear a calibre of scholars representative of the greatness of The George Washington University and its faculties.

The Symposium will be open to alumni, students and friends of the University without charge. It will be preceded by the annual Homecoming Buffet Luncheon in Lisner Lounge beginning at 12:30 p.m. The price of this luncheon will be $1.50.

Moderating the Alumni Symposium panel will be Dr. John F. Latimer, University Marshal and Professor of Classical Languages and Literatures. Other speakers will be:

George Gamow, Professor of Theoretical Physics

Martin A. Mason, Dean of the School of Engineering

Brian Blades, Professor of Surgery

Fred S. Tupper, Professor of English Literature

Burnice H. Jarman, Professor of Education

Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, Director of Religious Activities

Edward C. Acheson, Associate Professor of Finance

Arthur E. Burns, Dean of the School of Government

Louis H. Mayo, Associate Professor of Law

Director of Alumni Relations Warren Gould says the Alumni Luncheon and Symposium will highlight on an intellectual level, the colorful Homecoming weekend's activities. "Many alumni will want to attend the Variety Show, the football game and the Homecoming dance, but all alumni will gain something from this climax to Homecoming, 1955."

New plan for the Homecoming Weekend of activities this year will provide a longer reign for the Homecoming Queen. The young woman chosen (by popular vote from 5 candidate-finalists) will be presented during half-time of the big Homecoming Game on Friday, and officially crowned by Roy Barnard, Student Council President, at the Homecoming Dance on Saturday night. Judges will pick the 5 finalists from the complete list of entries submitted earlier. The voting for the Queen will continue up to 7 p.m. Friday. Ballots will be counted in time to announce at half-time, adding to the suspense.

Homecoming Schedule is as follows:

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3:

8:30 p.m.: At Lisner Auditorium . . . Colonial Program, Homecoming Variety Show . . . skits and acts of variety entertainment . . . Return of GWU's football great . . . presenting the Queen Finalists.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 4:

Noon: Float Parade, around University area.

8:15 p.m.: At Griffith Stadium . . . Colonials play the University of West Virginia Mountaineers . . . Finalists parade and Homecoming Queen is announced and presented, at half-time.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 5:

12:30 p.m. at Lisner Auditorium Lounge . . . Homecoming Buffet Luncheon

2 p.m. at Lisner Auditorium . . . Alumni Symposium

Trustee Scholar Beverly Alexander was crowned Homecoming Queen last year by Student Council President Tom Brown.

9 p.m. to 1 a.m.: At National Guard Armory . . . the gala Homecoming Dance . . . Music of 2 bands, Les Elgart, whose recorded album of "Sophisticated Swing" is adding to the popularity of his band, and Jack Morton, GW alumnus and ever-popular band leader . . . Crowning of the Queen . . . tapping for Gate and Key, Omicron Delta Kappa, men's honoraries.

Contributions to First Annual Alumni Fund Drive

The first annual alumni fund drive was brought to a close on August 30, 1955, with total contributions amounting to $3,209.50 having been received from 703 graduates, according to an announcement from President Stanley J. Tracy.

This concluded the first giving campaign sponsored by the General Alumni Association following the abolishment of its annual dues structure. Contributors to the fund were awarded membership privileges in the General Alumni Association. Their contributions have been designated to assist in the growth of the University and its alumni activities.

"I am heartened by the results of this year's campaign," stated President Tracy, "especially considering the transitory nature of the fund resulting from the abolishment of dues and sole reliance upon annual giving." The General Alumni President disclosed that the average contribution was approximately $4.50.

As newly elected president of the association, Judge James R. Kirkland announced last month that plans were being readied for having continued expansion of the Annual Alumni Fund incorporating increased emphasis upon direct mail solicitation, publicity and personal solicitation. Details of this year's annual alumni fund will be announced in the near future, according to Judge Kirkland.

GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION
THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
WASHINGTON 6, D. C.
November 1, 1955

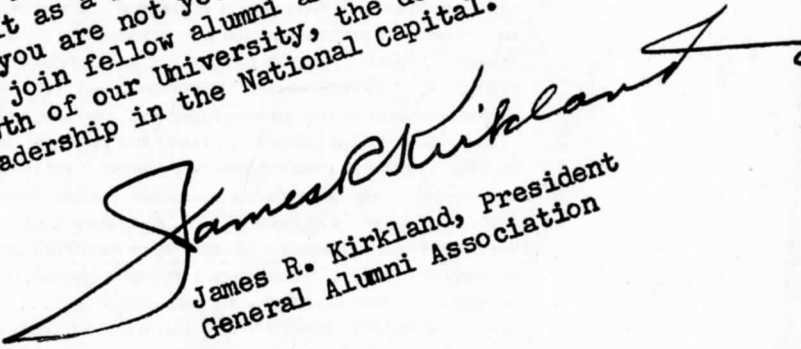

Dear Fellow Alumni:

Your University broadens its scope each year, so that students will have better opportunities.

Many people contribute to this development; the Trustees, the Faculties, the University officers, the Students themselves. In addition, many friends who are not on the campus recognize the potential of the University in terms of our national life.

On the next two pages you will find names of some who help the University serve our society. Some are alumni. Elsewhere in the magazine are names of other alumni who help the University through the annual alumni fund, as alumni representatives, as leaders of various alumni groups.

These and other alumni of the University have discovered that a belief in the University, gained through close association with it as a student, can continue to serve our society. If you are not yet enrolled in such a service, I urge you to join fellow alumni and others who contribute to the growth of our University, the development of scholarship and leadership in the National Capital.

James R. Kirkland, President
General Alumni Association

The George Washington University

Expresses its indebtedness and appreciation to the business and manufacturing groups named below. Similar acknowledgment will soon be made of the cooperation of educational and charitable foundations, professional firms, and social organizations which with these business and manufacturing organizations give support to the University's program. That business and industry directly assist colleges and universities is significant. It is a recognition on their part of the role of higher education in the production of leadership which can best serve our society.

National University Alumni Join Law Alumni

Graduates of the National University which recently was merged with The George Washington University were welcomed to membership in the University Law Association by action at the Association's annual business meeting in August..

The Association members, meeting in conjunction with sessions of the American Bar Association in Philadelphia, amended their by-laws to make it possible for National alumni to join their ranks.

Hughes Elected

At the same meeting, Joseph D. Hughes, LLB (wd) 34, of Pittsburgh, Pa., was elected President of the Law Association to succeed Weston Vernon, Jr., LLB 29, of New York City. Other officers for the coming year include: First Vice President, Bernard I. Nordlinger, AB 29, LLB (wd) 33; Second Vice President, Emory M. Groff (National University); Third Vice President, Fontaine C. Bradley, LLB (wd) 25; and Secretary-Treasurer, Elizabeth S. Freret, LLB (wd) 50.

Dean Robert G. Storey of Southern Methodist University was the principal speaker at the luncheon-business meeting held in the Broadwood Hotel. Dean Storey discussed the evolution of the law center movement in the United States and enthusiastically outlined the opportunities for a national Law Center in the District of Columbia.

Distinguished Guests

Distinguished guests included: Newell W. Ellison, University Trustee; O. S. Colclough, Dean of Faculties; John T. Fey, Dean of the Law School; Judge Philbrick McCoy, LLB 23, LLM 24; Charles S. Rhyne, LLB 37; J. Frank Perrin (National University); W. Cameron Burton, LLB 21; Justin L. Edgerton, AB 29, LLB 31; H. Cecil Kilpatrick, LLB 22; Margaret N. Earley (National University).

Also, Stanley J. Tracy, LLB 25, President of the General Alumni Association; Raymond Lee, LLB 52, President of the Philadelphia Club; Edward F. Colladay, LLB 98, LLM 99; William E. Kemp, LLB 17, former Mayor of Kansas City, Mo.; Mayor August F. Walz, LLB 32, of Wilmington, Del.; Sam Houston (National University); Thomas F. Mount, LLB 22, chairman of the luncheon; and Paul A. O'Bryan (National University).

Law Alumni President Joseph D. Hughes welcomes James F. Perrin, past president of National University Alumni Association.

The University's Student Bar Association has been named by the American Law Student Association the most outstanding member association in the United States.

Mr. Ansell

Outranking 117 other student bar associations, the University group was awarded a trophy and plaque "in recognition of and appreciation for, its diligent efforts and outstanding accomplishments in initiating and promoting those activities designed to further the welfare and preparation of future members of the Bar. . . ."

The University was further honored when Amicus Curiae, the law school quarterly published by the SBA, was named second place winner among law school publications by the American Law Student Association.

The American Law Student Association, sponsored by the American Bar Association, serves to introduce students to professional problems and sponsors service projects as aids to future lawyers. Approximately 35,000 students belong to the 118 member associations.

SBA President William Driscoll attributes much of the success of last year's program to his predecessor, Edward O. Ansell, who is now with the Research Laboratory of Radio Corporation of America in Princeton, New Jersey.

The SBA each year invites outstanding legal figures to speak on panel forums and discuss questions of interest to the student; supports a legal aid section; conducts tours of Washington area courts; sponsors a series of movies and dances; and conducts Law Day, which includes finals of the Case Club competition, panel discussions, luncheon, and an evening dance.

Plans for this year's program are well under way, according to President Driscoll, with Law Day scheduled for March 3 of next year, and evening discussion programs, open to all law students in the District of Columbia, planned for October 27, December 1, February 8, and April 4.

To Create a Great Legal Center

Dear Fellow Alumnus:

I avail myself of this opportunity to lay before you through the Alumni Review a matter in which I think every graduate of the University should be interested. During the last quarter of a century the University has made phenomenal progress under the leadership of President Marvin. We have a great University, but it must be made greater. The next step in this march of progress is our plan to establish a Law Center at the Law School and thus create in Washington a great legal center of learning for students and lawyers alike.

We have pledged ourselves to raise $4,500,000 to build this Law Center at George Washington, the first step of which is to raise $500,000 from our graduates. We are more than one-third on our way in this initial step and we solicit your support for what I know to be a worthy cause and one that will strengthen the whole University.

Having taken my undergraduate work, as well as my law, at George Washington, I write you from the background of a double loyalty. My years were 1917 and 1921 and I am fully aware of the "hardships" of the old days, but they have served to draw me ever closer to the University. She did a great deal for me and I am glad to be serving her. If you haven't tried it, I recommend it.

George Washington, as in the case of every university, can be no greater than her Alumni. Our strength as Alumni is to be measured by what we do for our University. I urge every graduate to do something and do it now.

Our location in the Nation's Capital gives us the unprecedented opportunity to have a great Law School and we dare not let this challenge pass us by. With your help this part in the University's development will be realized at an early date.

Cordially yours,

NEWELL W. ELLISON,
National Chairman of the Law Center Drive.

Mr. Ellison

The University Faculty

Charles W. Bliven, Dean of the School of Pharmacy, was elected to a two-year term on the Executive Committee of the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy.

Benjamin C. Cruickshanks, Professor of Mechanical Engineering, has been awarded a plaque from the national board of Sigma Tau in recognition of "his distinguished role as a member of the petitioning group which became the local chapter, as Chairman of the National Fellowship Award Committee, and in appreciation of his devoted service to engineering education." It was one of eight such awards given throughout the country in connection with the fiftieth anniversary of the honor society.

Paul Frederick Dickens, Professor Emeritus of Clinical Medicine, received the University of Tennessee's Certificate of Merit in a ceremony in Memphis in September. The award is in recognition of fifty years of service "to members of his community, both in the U. S. Navy and in civil life." At the same time Dr. Dickens received the "Golden T" from the Memphis Division Alumni Association of the University of Tennessee.

Addison Duval, Clinical Professor of Psychiatry, received the District Medical Society's Certificate of Merit for his outstanding contributions to the health and welfare of the children of Washington. Under Dr. Duval's guidance, the Kiwanis Clinic for emotionally disturbed children was established in 1948.

Weldon T. Ellis, Jr., Professorial Lecturer in Business Administration, has been elected Chairman of the Board of Directors and President of the Armed Forces Management Association. Mr. Ellis was formerly Vice Chairman of the Board of Directors and has held many important assignments in the Association.

Dr. James J. Feffer, Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine and Director of the University Pulmonary Disease Clinic, was elected President of the Tuberculosis Association of the District of Columbia.

Carson Gray Frailey, Lecturer on Pharmaceutical Law, has been elected president of the National Symphony Orchestra. He has served as director of the orchestra for four years and vice president for two years, as well as three-times chairman of the orchestra's sustaining fund drives.

James H. Fox, Professor of Education and Dean of the School of Education, spoke at the graduation exercises of Manchester School in Hanover, Pennsylvania.

Charles E. Gauss, Elton Professor of Philosophy, gave a lecture at the National Gallery of Art on "Plato's Theory of Art."

Sol Katz, Adjunct Clinical Professor of Medicine, addressed the 14th Conference on Chemotherapy of Tuberculosis in Atlanta, Ga., on "Use of Cortisone in Pre-terminal Tuberculosis." He spoke before the Farquier County Tuberculosis Association in Warrenton, Va., on "Current Problems of Tuberculosis."

L. Poe Leggette, Depew Professor of Speech, and Edward Ferero, Assistant to the Director of Activities for Men, were directors of the Board of Trade's variety salute to World Trade Week titled "International Night."

Cloyd H. Marvin, President of the University, has been named to direct citizen efforts to coordinate local mental health activities.

Martin A. Mason, Dean of the School of Engineering, has been named a member of the Urban Renewal Operations Committee. The Committee's job is to co-ordinate slum elimination efforts in the Nation's Capital.

William Ross Morris, Associate in Surgery, has succeeded Preston A. McLendon, Professor of Pediatrics, as the 89th President of the District Medical Society.

Winfred Overholser, Professor of Psychiatry, has been reelected president of the Washington Institute of Mental Hygiene Society. He has been president of the society since 1937.

Lawrence E. Putnam, Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine, has been appointed to the Editorial Board of a new journal, "Antibiotic Medicine—Journal of Clinical Studies and Practice of Antibiotic Therapy."

Madaline K. Remmlein, Professorial Lecturer in Education, taught two courses in the University of Toledo summer term. Her course in school law and a seminar in public school administration were offered.

Coordinator of Scientific Information Benjamin D. Van Evera, and Director Robert C. Faylor, of the Army Logistics Research Project at the University made a three-week tour of military bases in Europe in connection with University studies being done for the Army.

William H. Sebrell, Professorial Lecturer in Nutrition, has retired as Director of the National Institutes of Health. He has accepted appointment as research consultant and will direct the American Cancer Society's institutional research grants program.

Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, Milbank Professor of Religion, has been appointed to the Board of Trustees of Mount Vernon Junior College and Seminary.

Joseph W. Still, Assistant Professor of Physiology, has been appointed to the National Committee on the Aging, a division of the National Social Welfare Assembly. This committee is attempting to solve the economic and social problems resulting from the increase of the aged among the population. It is also concerned with the problems of retirement and the establishment of better living conditions in institutions for the aged.

James W. Watts, Professor of Neurological Surgery, attended the 20th Anniversary Meeting of the International College of Surgeons in Geneva, Switzerland. There he presented a paper on "Psychosurgery on Its Twentieth Anniversary."

Jacob J. Weinstein, Associate in Surgery, has been elected First Vice President of the International Academy of Proctology.

Karl H. Wood, Associate in Dental Surgery, has been elected a director of the District Building and Loan Association.

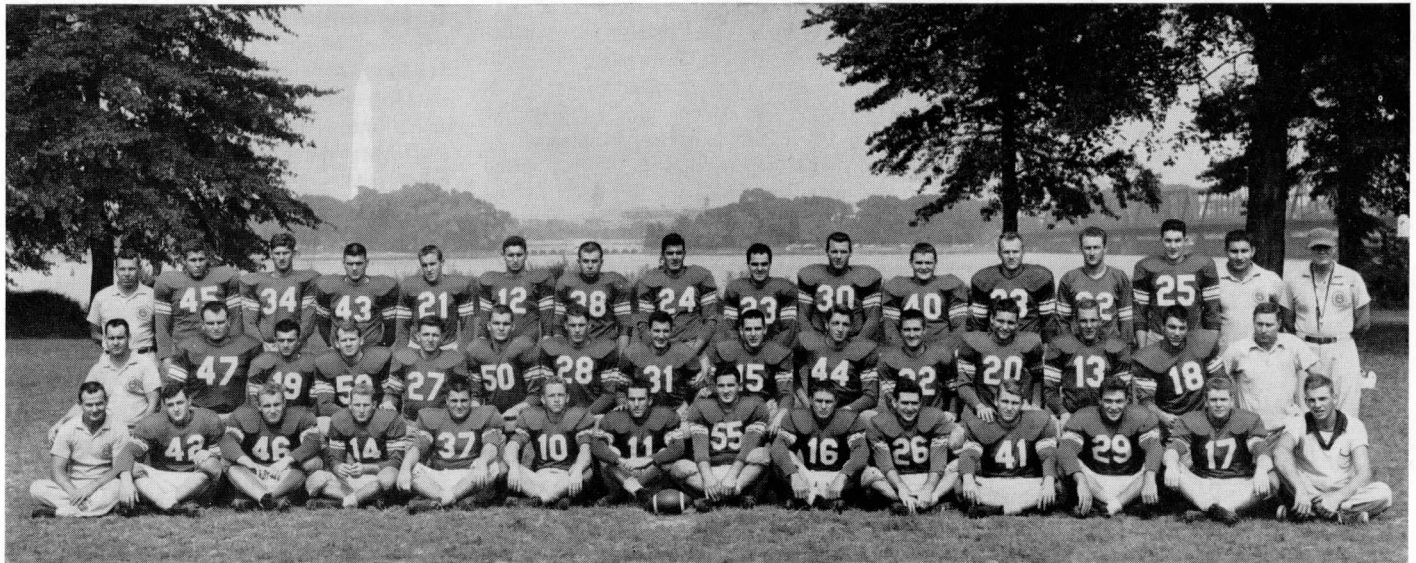

Leon Yochelson, Clinical Professor of Psychiatry, was a panelist on the subject, "Children Growing Up in Our Home Town," presented at Washington's Sixth Annual Health, Welfare and Recreation Conference.

The COLONIALS IN SPORTS

By Carroll Hall

After the first two weeks of the 1955 football season, the University's gallant band of footballers were among the top teams in the country in total defense and pass defense. They had scored victories over VMI and the University of Virginia.

The Colonials were seventh in the Nation in total defense with an average of 138.5 yards yielded per game, and they held the same position in pass defense with only eight completions in 27 attempts by the opposition for an average of 34.5 yards per contest.

In registering the two victories, the Colonials broke several "jinxes" against their Virginia rivals. First, the Buff and Blue halted a two-game winning streak by VMI, in scoring a 25 to 6 victory. Secondly, they won an opening game for the first time since 1952, when they trounced North Carolina State, 39-0.

The 13-0 victory over Virginia was one of the "big" ones for the Colonials. It was the first time in seven years that G.W. was able to turn back the Cavaliers, and it was the second win in the 15-game series.

George Washington, however, still has a rough road to travel—but if its performance in the first two games is an indication of the strength of the team—future opponents are going to be in for a rough time.

Meet "Bob" Faris (Robert K. Faris, BS in PE 39), the newly appointed Graduate Manager of Athletics at The George Washington University.

Bob is no newcomer to Colonial sports enthusiasts, for it was 20 years ago that the Nebraskan matriculated at G.W., and went on to carve his name in the sports world as a member of the football, basketball and tennis teams from 1935 through 1939. He received honorable mention on many All-American teams.

Faris has taken over the duties of the intercollegiate athletic program at the University, succeeding Max Farrington, Assistant to the President, who is now in charge of the Development Division of the University.

One of the all-time Colonial court greats, Faris returns to his Alma Mater after three successful years as Director of the freshman football program at the University of Nebraska.

MAN AGAINST FIRE

By Bob Considine, Ex 31, Doubleday, $5.

Bob Considine, nationally known columnist, sports authority, author of "30 Seconds Over Tokyo" and other books, applies his somewhat unusual talents to a field seldom ventured into by a laity and one which is not fully understood by many of those who are part of it, namely, the fire insurance industry, in "Man Against Fire." The book is an enthusiastic pat on the back for and an entertaining explanation of what ordinarily turns into dull reading along about the title page: Fire Insurance.

From a description of hero fire fighting activities, including some delightful anecdotes about bucket brigades; circa 1700, through historical treatment of fire insurance companies, great fires in the history of the United States, and policy coverages and their evolution, to such staid subjects as rate making, state regulations of insurance, and the necessity of fire insurance in our economy, Mr. Considine, in far less prose than found in the average best seller, manages to bring home a message in a fast-paced book that rarely stumbles, always moves, and is presented in a nontechnical language, entirely bereft of the usual mystogogy of insurance.

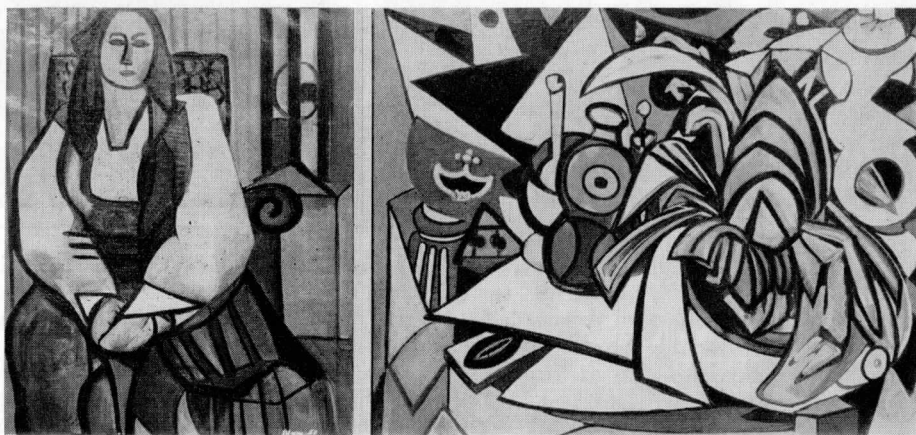

Mr. Considine's enthusiasm for the fire insurance industry may seem a bit exuberant at certain points. For example it seems somewhat unrealistic to call an adjuster an "unsung hero" who "carries out a relief mission in time of emergency"—a job which he is paid to do and usually does in the most impersonal and professional manner, and certainly not always on the most delightful terms. There are similar examples throughout the book.

However, this tendency of the author may be explained by the fact that the book is the third in an American Industries Series. Mr. Considine's very favorable over-all presentation of the importance of fire insurance in our economy is not all misplaced, even though some of his heroes would hardly be recognized by contemporaries of the fire insurance industry. The author devotes a chapter to the thesis that there could be no economic system as we know it in the United States if there were no fire insurance policies to protect against risks involved in business, and to protect the keystone of our economic system, namely, credit. One can have no honest dispute with this theme. And therein lies the thoughtful message of "Man Against Fire."

In addition to the story told, there are useful appendages including a fire insurance chronology, a glossary of technical terms, 13 appendices giving safety rules, types of insurance coverage, annual fire laws in the United States, a chronology of great fires and tornadoes in the United States, a bibliography, and an index: all of this in 346 pages!

University Poets

Two University alumni received second and third awards in the poetry category of the Virginia Highlands Festival's creative writing project. The two prize-winning entries, selected by the poet, John Ciardi, are reproduced here:

2nd award

DIRGE

*The ragoon robin roundelay
Sweeps the strings in mandalay
Note the lark so out of tune
Note the crocodile and loon
Note the cold and sickle moon
Hush, the silence of the loom
Fills the silver shadow room
Woven cloth like slithering milk
Sinuous shimmering coffin silk.*

—HARRIETT HULFISH, AB 53

3rd award

THE VOYAGE UP

*Thrust beyond time and place,
Breaking the tough skin of air,
Pushing through the pull of earth,
Burning holes in the colored dome,
Up, up, and over,
Into steady seas of outer night,
Space Admiral, I,
Unreeling ribbons of void
Created where I look,
Pilgriming out roadways that never were,
Where channel buoys are other worlds
Charted in by running lights of stars.*

—GENE WOLFE, AB 50

Alumni Can Aid Scholarship Program

Alumni can be a vital source of superior students and of scholarships to attract such students to the University, according to Dr. Burnice H. Jarman, newly appointed Chairman of the University Scholarship Committee, who is Dean of the Summer Sessions and Professor of Education.

Dr. Jarman, who has just completed a University assignment of 14 years as Chairman of the Student Life Committee, points out that scholarship holders constitute an important part of student leadership.

More scholarships are available in the scientific and professional fields. More are needed in such fields of study as teaching, literature, sociology, students preparing for the ministry.

Alumni, who understand the worth of the University program through their own close experience, can help develop scholarship and leadership at the University by contributing to the scholarship program, Dr. Jarman says. This may be by personal contributions of funds. It may be by drawing to the attention of foundations and others who establish fellowships and scholarships the opportunities for scholarship at the University.

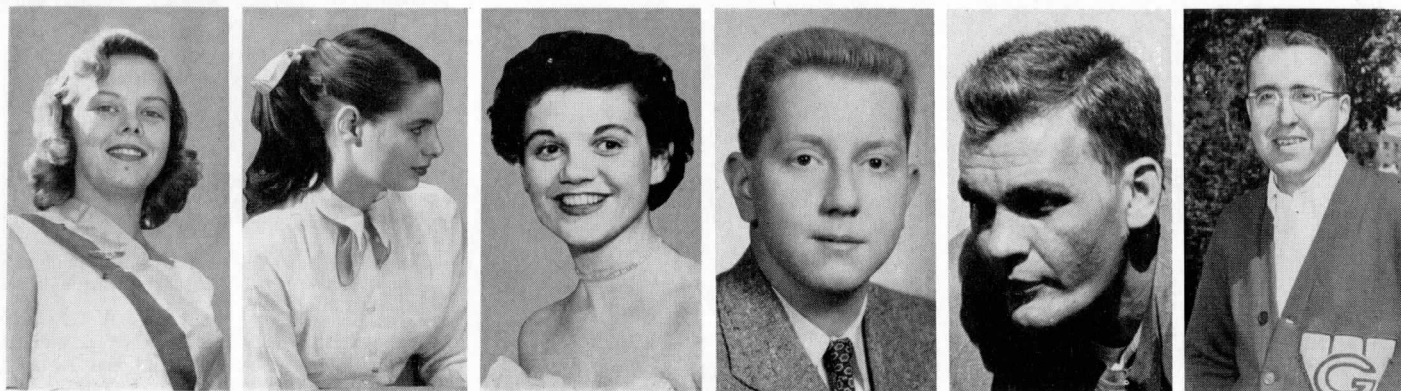

"The University needs more attractive scholarships. Funds adequate to cover college costs even 10 years ago no longer meet the needs of many students who must have help to continue their studies," according to Dr. Jarman.

This Fall a General Motors College Scholarship was established at the University.

Student-Graduate Placement Office

Miss Patricia Coulter, Placement Officer, discusses job prospects with Allen E. Harrison, AB in Govt. 55.

A message to G.W. alumni from Patricia F. Coulter, of the Student-Graduate Placement Office:

That strange-appearing ground floor office at 2114 G Street N. W.—the one with the large, pamphlet-decorated display windows directly across from James Monroe Hall—is an office which many of you are getting to know. A goodly number of alumni don't, of course, remember seeing a placement office. Its only since 1947 that full-time facilities have existed for G. W. students and graduates.

A good placement office needs to have experienced candidates in order to insure community service and reputation and in order to attract the level of job listings we like to have.

Perhaps your Placement staff may HELP YOU in one or more of the following ways:

1) Do you wish to have permanently on file a set of credentials to be sent to prospective employers when applying for jobs? A new credentials system has been installed which is available to you at a nominal cost. If you wish details on how to avail yourself of this service, send a card to us at 2114 G Street N. W.

2) Do you want to be notified of certain job opportunities? If you will write us indicating your specific job needs we will be happy to send you a registration card.

We caution you not to expect too much. We never have $10,000 and $25,000 jobs in any quantity. Your best chances of hearing from us of specific openings occur if you wish to locate in the Washington

If you can follow up job leads with interviews in the area your chances of employment are, of course, enhanced. If you are technically trained your chances of hearing of jobs are likewise enhanced. (We probably don't need to tell you that today's market for engineers, physicists, chemists, etc. is the best market yet.)

As alumni who may wish to have our help either now or perhaps in the future here's HOW YOU CAN HELP US:

1) Call us or write us when you hear of job opportunities. Many a G. W. grad has directly or indirectly made jobs for other alumni. Let us know of openings in your own organizations. Perhaps we know of just the person you need!

2) Through your alumni organizations in your particular area you can help new G. W. alumni who are seeking employment. If your city has an active alumni group and you have not already thought of this, how about appointing a placement chairman? We will happily keep such a person informed of good job opportunities known to our office. He, in turn, can notify us of jobs offering potential for G. W. alumni who might be interested in relocating.

sity to cover tuition and costs of an exceptional student.

Other scholarships covering full tuition for one year or more are: 26 Trustee Scholarships for incoming Washington area students; 5 regional alumni scholarships for incoming male students; 7 law scholarships, 4 engineering scholarships, a limited number of student activity scholarships, the John O. Rankin scholarship in foreign affairs, 3 scholarships available to employees of Washington daily newspapers.

The Colonials, Inc.

Mr. Embrey

With a new look in officers and membership dues, The Colonials, Inc.—the male alumni organization interested in student activities and athletics—has begun its 1955-56 schedule.

L. Jackson Embrey, prominent Arlington Va., attorney who heads the organization this year, announced a Board of Trustees decision to raise yearly membership dues to $25 to better assist the University in the building of an outstanding athletic program. "Through the establishment of a Student Education Fund," Mr. Embrey stated, "60 per cent of each member's dues goes for the promotion of outstanding students and athletes and for emergency assistance to undergraduates."

The Colonials, Inc., in addition to this program of increased assistance to the University, has scheduled a program of activities to carry through to the conclusion of the basketball season. Following a kick-off reception at the National Airport in September, the organization held post-game parties at the University of Virginia and the University of Pennsylvania.

The traditional dinners honoring the football and basketball teams will be held in December and March, President Embrey has reported.

Alumni and friends interested in becoming members of The Colonials, Inc., either at $25 or at the $2.50 non-resident membership, should notify the organization at 2018 Eye St., N.W., Washington 6, D. C.

servants and The Columbian Women Scholarships for women students are flexible as regards amounts awarded in terms of individual student needs.

Scatter Techniques Of Communication

A symposium on "Communication by Scatter Techniques" will be held in Lisner Auditorium on November 14 and 15, 1955. This technical program, in four sessions, is jointly sponsored by the University, the Institute of Radio Engineers Professional Group on Antennas and Propagation, and the Professional Group on Communications Systems.

The first session of the program will be devoted to Propagation Mechanisms. Authorities in the fields of Auroral, Tropospheric, Ionospheric, and Meteoric Ionization Propagation will discuss the mechanics of each of these modes of transmission. The remaining three sessions of the program will include practical and descriptive discussions by authorities in the fields of Communication Systems, Antennas, and Propagation Studies.

On the evening of November 14, Dr. Allen B. Dumont will address a combined meeting of symposium visitors and the Washington Section of the Institute of Radio Engineers on commercial aspects of the symposium topic.

Chairman of the Steering Committee is Kenneth S. Kelleher of Melpar, and Chairman of the Technical Program Committee is John J. Renner of Jansky and Bailey.

Further information may be secured by writing to The George Washington University School of Engineering, Washington 6, D. C.

Basketball

The basketball outlook at the University for the 1955-56 season appears bright as Coach Bill Reinhart has six veterans from last year's club back for a tough 22-game slate.

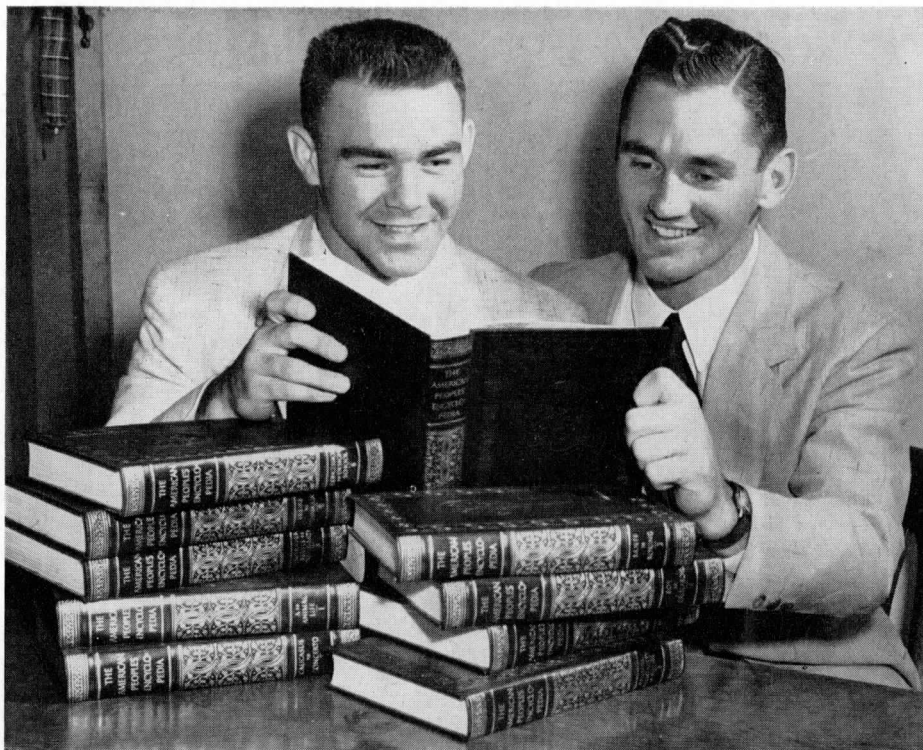

Heading the list of veterans who helped make the Colonials the deadliest shooting team in the nation last year with a 47.6 percentage in field goals are Joe Holup, 6-6 center, who scored 601 points last year, and was second in the nation in field goal percentage.

Two newcomers, St. Joseph's and Manhattan appear on the Colonials' schedule this season, and a game with the Wyoming Cowboys may be added. The Colonials play St. Joe's on December 9 at Philadelphia's Palestra, and they invade Madison Square Garden on December 22 to face Manhattan.

Wake Forest furnishes the opposition in the Colonials' opener here on December 2 at Uline arena. William and Mary moves into Washington-Lee on the sixth and West Virginia, featuring Hot Rod Hundley, test the Colonials on December 13, at Uline arena.

The George Washington University, winner of the Steel Bowl and Richmond Invitational championships and runnerup to San Francisco and West Virginia in the All-College and Southern Conference tournaments, respectively, last year, will appear in one tournament during December.

George Washington, Maryland, St. Francis of Loretto, Pa., and Michigan State will play in a two-day event at the University of Maryland on December 29 and 30.

Pat Kober AA 54 and Joe Boland AB 55, were named to the Southern Conference All Scholastic Football Team and were each awarded sets of The American People's Encyclopedia.

Columbian Women Scholars Named

Ten women students were awarded Columbian Women Scholarships for the Fall Semester according to Mrs. Vivian F. McNitt, Chairman of the Scholarship Committee.

Columbian Women scholarships are awarded able young women on a basis of academic ability and promise of valued contribution to the life of the community.

Fall scholars are: Dulcey Ann Brown, a sophomore majoring in American Thought and Civilization, who is a member of Colonial Boosters, Vice-President of Zeta Tau Alpha, and a Big Sis; Kyra Mosel, a senior in psychology, who is President of Chi Omega Sorority and Vice-President of Flying Sponsors; Mary L. Paulson, a senior in psychology, who is employed in the offices of U.S. News and World Report; Sylvia D. Feldman, a junior in Education, a member of the Dance Production Groups, the University Play-

Quotable Quotes

Those Troubadours

"Thule reactions to any situation are likely to be different. Bob Hope, the comic, brought a show to Thule for Christmas, 1954. He was welcomed, because, after all, he had a bevy of very pretty girl-type assistants the men nostalgically recall. But Hope and his theatrical beauties were not feted here as at other bases.

"There was a good explanation. On the base at exactly the same time were 16 college girls, members of the amateur glee club from George Washington University.

"The college group went everywhere. The girls served food at all meals—and in all the messes. They were very sweet and natural and just themselves. They were always ready to talk to the men, shut away from their own womenfolk for months. They laughed a lot, and were interested in the base and its operations.

"Toughest competition I ever had," Hope said later. "We almost had an arctic egg."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Max Rote, Jr., AB 36

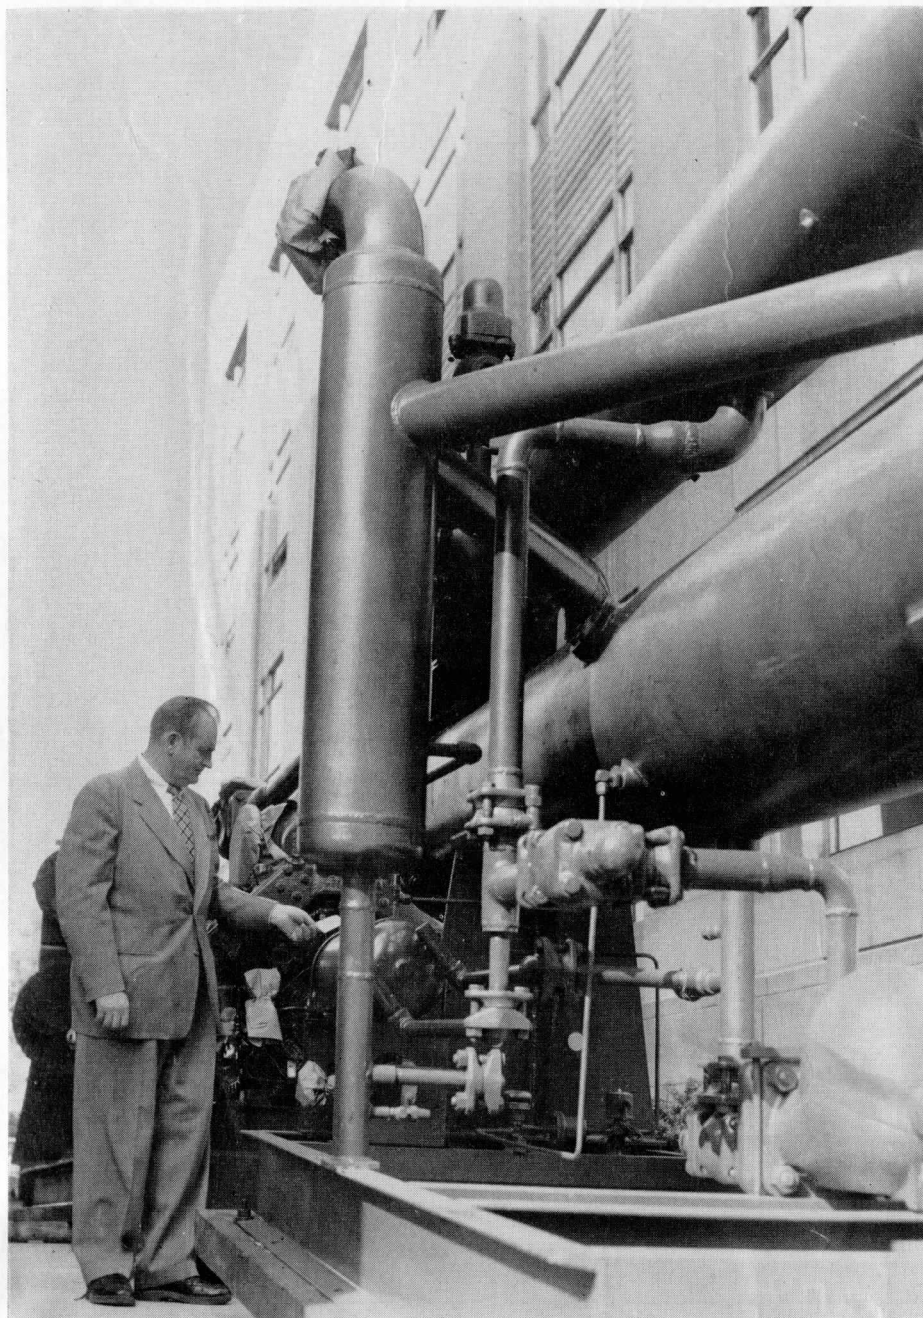

... "Mr. Rote has supervised relief work at the scene of some of the Nation's greatest debacles. Last year he rushed to New England to assume duties as director of mopup activities after Hurricanes Carol and Edna cut their deadly swaths through the Atlantic seaboard.

"In the Spring of 1952, the Missouri River spilled over her banks, driving thousands from their homes in six States. Setting up headquarters in Omaha, Mr. Rote directed relief work which eventually cost the Red Cross well over $1,000,000.

"Woodward, Okla., in 1947, ripped by a tornado, was the scene of utter desolation when he moved in with a three-man staff. . . .

"In surveying the desperate needs created by Diane's $1,000,000,000 tantrum in the Northeast, nearly every top Red Cross official converged on the flood-torn area. A member of the thinning Washington staff reported that Mr. Rote, poised on his chair for three days finally got the call.

"'He went out of here on the fly,' said the behind-the-lines spokesman."—Baltimore Sun.

Also Mrs. Anne Seel Bikle, a senior studying technical writing, who was the 1954 winner of the Alexander Welbourne Weddell Peace Prize; Brigitte Buchmann, who is a member of the Student Medical Association, junior member of the American Medical Women's Association, and of Iota Sigma Pi, Women's National Chem-
